Understanding Employee Attrition and Workforce Turnover

Welcome

Overall Attrition

Sales Team Attrition

Reasons for Attrition

Department
All

Job Level
All

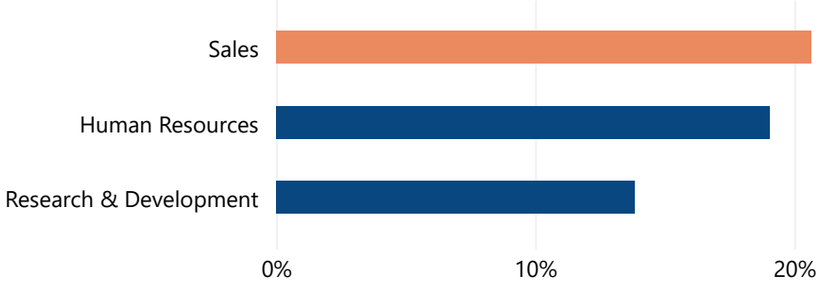
👥 Total Employees
1,470

📉 Total Attrition
237

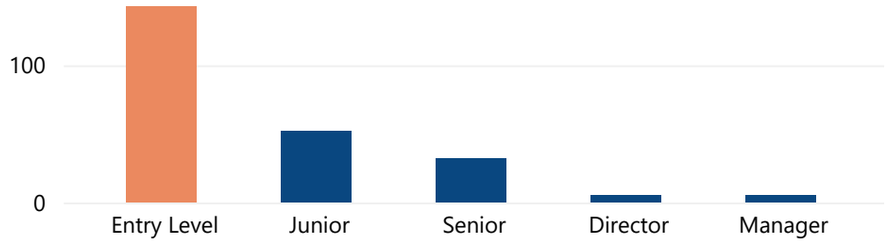
✔ Total Active
1,233

⚠️ Attrition Rate
16.12%

Which department has the highest attrition rate?



Which job level is most likely to leave?



Do employees who work overtime leave more?

💡 Main Findings:

🏢 Overall: About 16.12% of employees leave the company. But some groups leave much more than others.

🚨 Who leaves the most? The data shows that Entry Level staff and people who work Overtime are the most likely to quit (about 30% of them leave).

👉 Next Step: The Sales department has the highest quit rate (greater than 20%). Let's go to the Sales Analysis page to look closer at this team.

Understanding Employee Attrition and Workforce Turnover / Sales Team Attrition Analysis

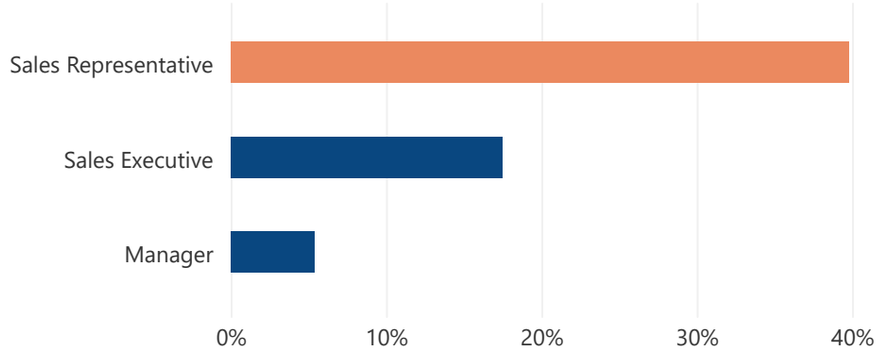
Welcome

Overall Attrition

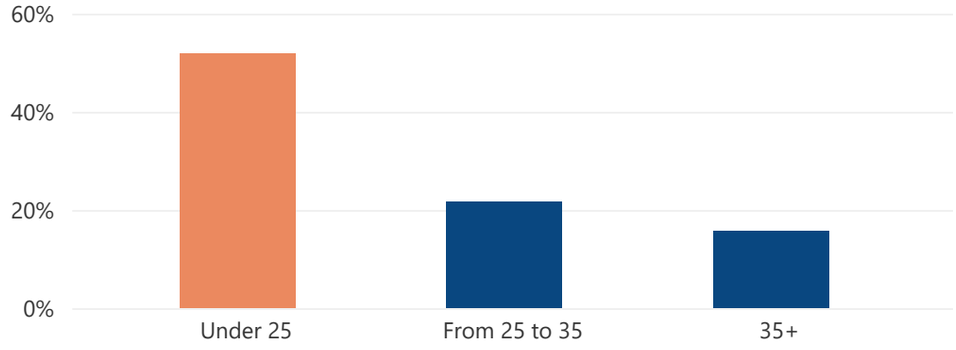
Sales Team Attrition

Reasons for Attrition

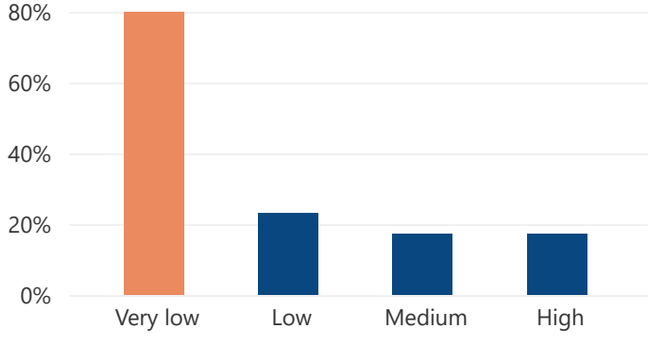
Which job roles in Sales have the highest attrition rate?



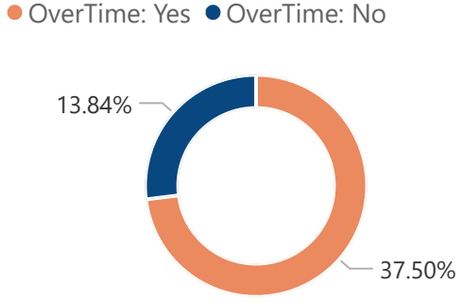
Which age group in the Sales team is most likely to leave?



Does monthly income influence attrition within the Sales department?



Does working overtime increase attrition risk for Sales employees?



💡 Insights: The High-Risk Persona

👤 The highest attrition risk lies in young (under 25), Sales Representatives who are burdened with frequent overtime yet receive very low compensation.

Understanding Employee Attrition and Workforce Turnover / Reasons for Attrition Analysis

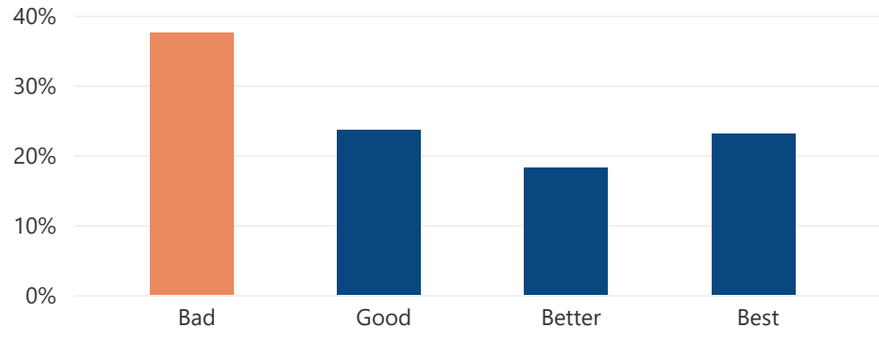
Welcome

Overall Attrition

Sales Team Attrition

Reasons for Attrition

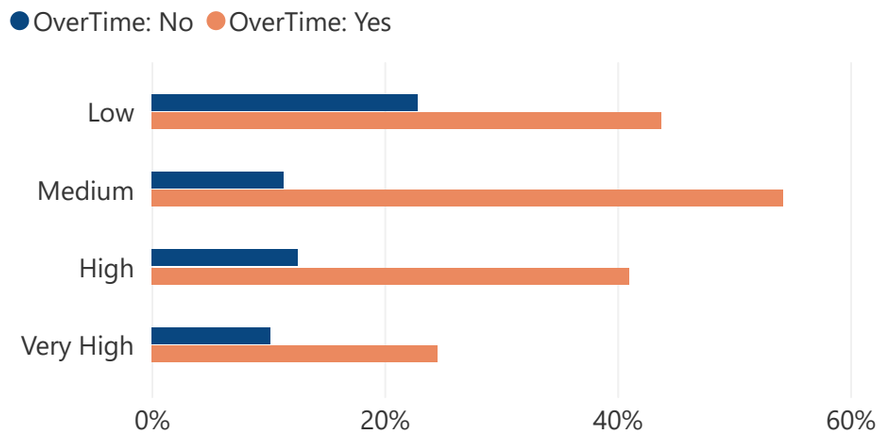
How does Work-Life Balance impact the turnover rate?



The Toxic Combo: Does Overtime worsen poor Work-Life Balance?

WorkLifeBalance_Label	OverTime: No	OverTime: Yes
Bad	42%	25%
Good	15%	40%
Better	11%	37%
Best	18%	38%

Can high Job Satisfaction offset the risk of Overtime?



💡 Key Data Insights:

⏱️ Overtime is the main problem: Working overtime makes employees leave the company 2 to 3 times more. For example, the quit rate jumps from 15% to 40% in the "Good" Work-Life Balance group.

⭐ Happy employees still leave: Even if staff love their jobs ("Very High" satisfaction), overtime still makes them quit (rate increases from 12% to 25%).

🎯 Overall Recommendation:

To keep our young Sales Reps, HR must prioritize reducing workload and overtime hours, rather than just offering general mental health programs.